

AUTO GOING AT 50-MILE PACE AS IT KILLED GIRL

So Witnesses Swear at Trial of Brinsmade and Chauffeur for Manslaughter.

When the trial of Louis L. Brinsmade, manager of the Westinghouse Company's business in this city, and his chauffeur, Joseph Landers, for manslaughter, in causing the death of Laura D. Brown, of Mount Joy, Pa., was continued before Judge M. L. Barry at Toms River, N. J., to-day, more than ten witnesses appeared for the State, all ready to testify that Brinsmade's machine was going fifty miles an hour at the time of the accident.

It is believed the examination of the State's witnesses will consume the greater part of the day. Witnesses for the defense will then be heard. The trial, which was begun yesterday, continued far into last night, and it is expected all evidence will be in and the case given to the jury by to-night.

So intense was the feeling aroused by the case that it took several hours to draw a jury. Ex-United States Attorney-General J. W. Griggs appeared for the defense. Prosecutor Brown opened the case for the people, and the first witness was Benjamin Brown, father of the dead girl. He was deeply affected by the story he had to tell and the spectators were moved to tears. Brown's face is covered with scars from the injuries he received in the accident. The father said that he left New Brunswick on the morning of June 1 in an automobile with his wife, his father, George Brown, and his two children. He testified that after leaving Barnegat on the way to Atlantic City his car was not making more than ten miles an hour. As he swung around a curve about a mile from the village he saw Brinsmade's automobile bearing down upon him at fully fifty miles an hour. Brown said that it came almost head on, and when a short distance away, tried to veer off. The road was wet, however, and it crashed into Brown's car.

The witness said that at the instant of the collision he put on the brakes, but his machine was hurled into the air. The gasoline tank was punctured and the contents burst into flames. Mrs. Brown was thrown into the road, while Brown, his father and children were enveloped in flames. Brown said that he picked up his daughter and laid her on the grass by the roadside. "I was so badly injured myself," said Brown, "that I really do not know what I did after the collision. I thought my daughter was dead when I picked her up, but she lived for five hours after ward."

Brown blamed Brinsmade and his chauffeur for the accident, and said that he had absolutely no chance to escape.

FINANCIER EXPIRED SEATED IN THEATRE.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15.—Robert L. Carson, a prominent financier and street railway magnate, died suddenly last night while watching a play in a Chestnut Street Theatre.

Mr. Carson, who was sixty-one years old, was accompanied by his wife and his brother-in-law, John B. Parsons, president of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company, and Mrs. Parsons. Mr. Carson was stricken at the close of the first act and fell forward in his seat. Mr. Parsons, thinking Mr. Carson had fainted, called an usher and together they raised the prostrate man to the aisle, position in the seat. When the lights were lowered for the second act he was reported from the theatre and was found that he was dead. Mr. Carson was for years a member of a number of clubs and societies. He was owner of the Ardheim stock farms at Chestnut Hill.

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse, but you must see that it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Castoria causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.
